

South Africa's Boers : Being Divided; Being Ruled

Written by Pietpicasso

Friday, 19 November 2010 17:24 - Last Updated Friday, 19 November 2010 17:26

The boer heritage given to them by treacherous past rulers, are minds amputated from reality.

The same goes for the rest of the South African population.

In 1928, the KOMINTERN decided that South Africa should have a black communist government. From then on, active measures and communist propaganda and psychological warfare techniques was deployed against boers to dislodge them from society, government and property.

The boers as a Protestant nation, were also a target of destruction from the Catholic Church's unfinished Counterreformation efforts and propaganda.

The British were using propaganda and other active measures techniques to strengthen their grip on minerals, gemstones, and precious metals acquired by their boer's genocide from 1899 to 1901.

This three-pronged attack from the Catholics, the communists, and the British led to the eventual subjugation of the boer nation in 1994.

The boers were then fully amputated from reality, and self-paralyzed from multiple psychological warfare techniques. They were not able to judge reality anymore, and were turned into an almost vegetative state, unable to protect themselves anymore.

The black population suffered equally severe physical brain damage from decades-long propaganda from these same sources.

However, in the case of the black population, propaganda was shaped to permanently taint the boers as demons, and also to include a Leninist type of Messianic Marxism into their thinking, permanently creating activism and terrorism into their thought patterns, but nonetheless severed from truth and reality.

South Africa's Boers : Being Divided; Being Ruled

Written by Pietpicasso

Friday, 19 November 2010 17:24 - Last Updated Friday, 19 November 2010 17:26

But bombarded with activist-generating propaganda, necessary for the creation of permanently biased terrorists.

Two sides of the coin in South Africa. Black and white.

Both amputated from reality.

The one side suffering from self-paralysis.

The other side suffering from hatred, and murderous activism.

A clear winning recipe for disaster, explaining completely the pro-white genocide committed against whites by black sociopaths on a daily basis.